Of course it's better to do something than nothing. If it's really purely made by the Kairosoft company and (most importantly) is a foundational model, it surely is excellent! Of course there is a lot to improve, like in UI and UX, and also fixing some bugs like in image generation (as of 31/01/2025)

Hey,just a suggestion.try to improve your user interface its a little average.Even the sign in page,you should give free usage Without login.and try to train the model more on data sets and make it able to go through online web search if needed.I hope india outstands the other AI 😊 Still it's a very good start,which I didn't expect. The logo is a little vibrant and colourfull.Make it as simple as possible and give an option for dark mode(user prefer it)

Global Market Research and Growth Story

The global artificial intelligence (AI) market is undergoing one of the most significant technology booms in history. As of 2024, the market is valued at approximately $184 billion. This number is not just a reflection of current enterprise adoption, but also a strong indicator of the increasing integration of AI across sectors such as healthcare, education, legal, finance, and manufacturing. Projections suggest that by 2025, the global AI market will reach around $243.7 billion, continuing to grow at a compound annual growth rate (CAGR) of nearly 27.7%. This means that within just two years, the AI market will add over $100 billion in value. Looking ahead to 2030, the AI industry is expected to surpass $826 billion globally. This rapid acceleration is driven by the expansion of real-world AI applications—from generative AI and conversational agents to predictive analytics and AI-powered automation in hiring and education.

Rapid Expansion: The AI market is experiencing exponential growth, with projections indicating a more than threefold increase from 2024 to 2030.

Regional Leadership: The United States and North America are poised to maintain significant shares of the global AI market but now asian countries like india and china also showing good growth.

Emerging Segments: Generative AI stands out as a particularly fast-growing segment, with a projected CAGR nearing 37% and it's also projected that once agentic AI will start rolling out it will double in short term.
