TSN/New Delhi

From street furniture of global standard to modern civic amenities and uniform signboards, the South Delhi Municipal Corporation is dreaming big for beautification of its markets.

Various upscale markets are located in South Delhi which receives a big footfall daily. The SDMC area is divided into four zones—Central, South and West and Najafgarh.

"As the SDMC has a number of reputed markets under its jurisdiction, hence, these deserve the best street furniture and amenities for customers and citizens," the mayor said, adding, the civic body is keen to make the markets more modern, and friendly for customers and citizens in particular.

DUSU election result shows youths' support for Congress: Maken

Staff Reporter
New Delhi

The Delhi Pradesh Congress Committee (DPCC) has hailed the victory of the NSUI candidates for the post of president and vice-president in the Delhi University Students Union elections, describing the victory as youths' support to the Congress party.

This victory has shown that the student community has wholeheartedly accepted the speech given by Congress vice-president Rahul Gandhi in the Berkeley University in the US on 12th September and rejected the speech of Prime Minister Narendra Modi on 11th September, said Ajay Maken, president, DPCC.

We demand immediate re-counting of the votes for the post of joint secretary under CCTV camera, he asserted.

Maken said that at the time of counting, it was unofficially announced that three candidates of the NSUI had emerged victorious—for the posts of president, vice-president and joint-secretary—but due to the false protest by the ABVP re-counting was done without camera for the post of joint secretary, and the ABVP candidate was declared winner with a narrow margin.

So we demanded that re-counting for the post of joint-secretary should be held under CCTV camera immediately, or else we will go to court in the matter.

The victory of the NSUI candidates for the post of president and vice-president in the DUSU elections shows that the youth, who helped Modi record a thumping victory in the Lok Sabha elections, has become disillusioned with him, he alleged.

With the direct intervention of the BJP and the BJP-ruled Central Government, effort was made to influence the DUSU elections as for the first time in the history of Delhi University, the DUSU elections were held on a week day, 12th September (Tuesday) instead of at the week end, like Friday or Saturday, in a bid to make the students listen to Modi's speech on Vivekananda on 11th September and thereby influence the student community of Delhi University, Maken further said.

The rising student vote percentage shows the widening support for the Congress. He said wherever the NSUI has a strong base, like in Punjab and Rajasthan Universities, the NSUI candidates had done well, and the same result has been repeated in Delhi.

People have become 'selfish' to earn profit: HC

TSN/New Delhi

People, using residential properties for commercial purposes, have become "selfish" as they were earning profits without even thinking of the inconvenience they are causing to their neighbours, the Delhi High Court said on Wednesday.

A bench of Acting Chief Justice Gita Mittal and Justice C Hari Shankar made the observation while expressing concern over the large number of coaching institutes coming up in the residential areas of the city causing "parking woes" and other inconvenience to the local residents.

"It is a very impossible situation. The people living in the city have become selfish for earning profit out of their business. They don't even think about their neighbours," the bench said.

It said that it had made it clear that the law has to be strictly complied with.

"Merely because the master plan permits the private usage or commercial usage in a particular area, does not by any means permit the existing residential properties to

Court made the observation while expressing concern over the large number of coaching institutes coming up in the residential areas of the city causing 'parking woes' and other inconvenience to the local residents be converted by such users.

"No waiver of the Building Bye Laws is allowed. There can be no exception to the mandatory requirements of the Building Bye Laws mandated under the Master Plan.

"Furthermore, while permitting conversion, the authorities are required to take all relevant factors into consideration including nuisance to the neighbours and cannot rest the permission on the sole ground that the Master Plan has permitted such usage," it said.

The court's observation came during the hearing of pleas by Delhi residents Sanjay Singhal and Kanchan

Gupta, who have alleged that over 100 coaching centres were permitted to be run by the MCD in residential properties.

They have also said that these centres were allowed to come up without conforming to the requirements of the master plan for buildings where such user is permitted. Contending that this was completely illegal and ought not to have been permitted, they alleged that it was resulting in overcrowding in the areas and causing "grave nuisance to the bonafide residents."

"The main roads in front of the building being converted into parking space for the students and the employees of the coaching centres, creating bottleneck for the traffic apart from the nuisance due to noise and lack of water and electricity," the petitioners have claimed.

The court had earlier observed that the national capital "will breathe" easier if it stayed all such conversion of residential property for commercial use without adhering to the master plan requirements.
